

In-person workshop hosted by The University of Melbourne, Australia

This event is sponsored by the Department of Management and Marketing at The University of Melbourne

Tuesday 29th October, 2024

9:00 am - 4:30 pm (AEST)

Led by

- Todd Bridgman: Associate Editor, Academy of Management Learning & Education
- Bill Harley: Associate Editor, Academy of Management Learning & Education
- Stuart Middleton: Associate Editor, Academy of Management Learning & Education

About AMLE

AMLE is rated as 4* in the UK CABS list and A* in the Australian Business Deans' Council list of journals. The journal's main emphasis is on theoretical debates about management learning and education in all types of settings—schools and universities as well as businesses and public and nonprofit organizations. Additionally, AMLE publishes work that addresses critical theoretical debates about “the business of business schools,” including the careers of management educators.

Workshop Overview

This workshop has two main parts. Refreshments and lunch will be provided.

Part 1 (preparation required): comprises a general introduction to AMLE, touching on its overlaps with other key journals in the field. The session is also focused on supporting and advising researchers, with current work-in-progress, how to develop and refine their papers with submission to AMLE in mind. Those wishing to participate in part one should note the requirements listed below.

Part 2 (no preparation required): The main focus is on writing manuscripts that advance our theoretical understanding about AMLE phenomena for the research article and essay sections of the journal. The second part of the workshop is open to all interested participants.

Part 1 Workshop Schedule (preparation required)

9:00-9:30 Arrival and coffee

9:30-10:30 AMLE overview, and Q&A

10:30-10:45 Coffee

10:45-12:30 Small group discussion of submissions, with individual advice from the facilitators

12:30-13:30 Lunch

Part 2 Workshop Schedule (no preparation required)

13:30-14:30 Writing Essays for AMLE (Bill)

14:30-15:30 Making a Theoretical Contribution (Todd and Stuart)

15:30-15:45 Coffee

15:45-16:30 follow-on meetings with any workshop participants who have remained and would like further advice on their work.

Part 1 Requirements

Participants in part one must:

- have either an extended abstract (5 pages) or a full paper that you would like to develop through constructive critique and that fits with AMLE's focus and content areas. Previous 'From The Editors' articles can serve as guideposts to clarify AMLE's focus and content areas (Foster, 2018; Hibbert et al., 2021; Lindebaum, 2023; Hibbert, in Rockmann et al., 2021).
- Send the submission in Word or PDF format, no later than 30th September 2024, to Bill Harley bharley@unimelb.edu.au. Your submission must have a cover page that includes: author name(s) and affiliation(s); three-four keywords; and an email address for the lead author. An abstract of up to 200 words should be provided on the first page of the paper. If you are sending an extended abstract, include a very brief plan for developing the full paper at the end of your text.
- Agree to your paper being discussed in a small group with other participants, as arranged by the workshop facilitators, and be willing and able to provide a short (5-minute maximum) overview of your paper to others in the discussion group.
- Commit to attending the whole workshop if your submission is accepted.

Please note that if we receive more submissions than we can accommodate, there will be selection of papers on the basis of their fit with AMLE and their stage of development.

You can still attend and participate in Part 2 if you do not have work to discuss in Part 1. Note, however, that preference will be given to authors that submit papers for Part 1. Email Bill Harley bharley@unimelb.edu.au by 30 September 2024, if you wish to register without submitting work for Part 1.

Registration

There is no registration fee, but participants are responsible to arrange their own travel and accommodation. Registration, submission of an extended abstract, and commitment to attend is required for all participants wishing to attend Part 1 and Part 2 of the PDW. Those who wish to attend Part 2 but not submit work for Part 1 are required to indicate their interest in attending.

Submission deadline: 30 September 2024.