From Sustainable Business to Regenerative Business

Averting catastrophic environmental disaster and the human consequences thereof

Recent revelations about planetary health, the state of the natural environment and the impact of the natural environment on human health, highlight how urgent it is for all areas of society, including business, to come together in a coordinated effort to not only avert environmental and human catastrophe, but to ensure that both people and planet can flourish moving forward into the second half of this decade.

ECU Centre for People, Place & Planet (CPPP) in collaboration with ANZAM Sustainability and Responsible Management Special Interest Group invites you to a presentation by Associate Professor Dave Webb (University of Western Australia) on the role of business and education in respect to planetary health (environmental health and human health). In his presentation, Associate Professor Dave Webb will argue why it is no longer enough for businesses to be sustainable. Instead, he argues the urgent need for businesses to become regenerative.

Join us for a lively presentation and discussion and learn about what you and your business can do to contribute toward a regenerative future.

Join us at the 21st ANZAM Operations, Supply Chain, and Services Management Symposium hosted by the Department of Management, Marketing, and Tourism at the University of Canterbury, Christchurch, New Zealand, from October 21-23, 2024.

This symposium is a fantastic opportunity for academics, industry partners, research students, and practitioners who are passionate about shaping the future of supply chains and operations. Engage with thought leaders, share insights, and network with peers from around the globe.

Our organising team—Dr. Mesbahuddin Chowdhury, Dr. Mona Koushan, Prof. Diane Mollenkopf, and Prof. Pavel Castka—eagerly awaits your participation. Don't miss out on this pivotal event!
