

Are you a people manager providing performance reviews? Do you utilise AI (including LLMs) for the development of performance reviews?

If you are part of an organisation in Australia and/or occupying a position in people management that requires you to utilise artificial intelligence (AI including Large Language Models) for HR-related tasks like performance management, we want to hear from you.

This research aims to understand the benefits and challenges of integrating AI into the critical HR processes for people managers.

The questionnaire includes questions about the perception of and engagement with AI at work and takes approx. 20 minutes. The questionnaire can be accessed here:
